

Housing strategy self-assessment

Our housing strategy self-assessment is an interactive diagnostic tool that can help you zero in on policies to consider for your community.

Only have a few minutes? The short version uses your answers to a few questions to direct you to guidance and policy tools on LocalHousingSolutions.org.

Have a little more time? The long version asks more detailed questions about policies your community has already adopted and your policy development process. With this additional information, the self-assessment tool is able to provide a more detailed, customized report.
